Liberals Sweep Saskatchewan and Ontario

In one of the biggest upsets in political history of recent years, the Liberal party was swept into power in the provinces of Saskatchewan and Ontario on Tuesday by a landslide that left the opposition sick and trembling.

With 65 out of 90 seats in Ontario, and 43 in Saskatchewan, which is about the same ratio, Mitchell Hepburn, 38 year old leader of Ontario's grists, and J. G. Gardner, Liberal leader and ex-Premier of Saskatchewan will have no trouble in selecting Cabinets, and will have a large enough majority to put through any sensible legislation they see fit to bring in.

In Saskatchewan the Farmer-Labor elected three candidates, and not a single Conservative, and in Ontario the story was almost as bad, although a few Tories were returned in the Ontario house.

WEEKLY LETTER

GARDEN INSECT CONTROL

The numerous insect pests that invade our gardens each year in growing and destructive numbers makes garden insect control a live topic. This week's letter gives methods, outlined by George F. Manson, assistant entomologist of the Dominion Entomological Branch at Lethbridge for controlling some of our more common garden insects.

There are two kinds of insects. One actually eats plants while the other only sucks the juice from the plant tissue. The first, including potato beetles, are controlled by dusting or spraying the leaf surface with Paris green, arsenate of lime or lead arsenate. For the sucking insects, such as plant lice or aphids, the spray or dust must come in direct contact with the body and nicotine sulphate, kerosene emulsion or Pyrethrum may be used.

Where both types of bugs are biting and sucking are present the combination of any or dust is needed. A spray of this type suggested by Mr. Manson for Paris Green or arsenate of lime, 2 tablespoonfuls, and nicotine sulphate, 2 teaspoonfuls, in a gallon of water containing enough soap to make good suds. If lead arsenate is used the quantity is doubled and the soap omitted.

Some cutworms may be controlled by spreading a poison onion are effectively checked by the use of corrosive sublimate bait of bran (20 lb.), molasses (1 qt.), Paris Green (1/2 lb.), water (2 to 3 gal.).

This is more effective if the garden can be watered well or irrigated just previous to rearing the bait.

Root maggots of cabbage and onion are effectively checked by the use of corrosive sublimate mate at the rate of 1 oz to 10 gallons of water. The soil around cabbage plants is soaked when the plants are set out. In the case of onions, the soil is soaked when the plants are 1 to 2 inches high, followed by weekly applications for the ensuing three or four weeks. A watering can with the nozzle removed is used in applying the solution.

Potato beetles are biting insects that need to be treated early because the adult is difficult to poison, while the immature insects may be poisoned with dusts or sprays of Paris Green, arsenate of lime or arsenate of lead. A cheap means of control is to dust with a mixture of one part of arsenate of lime and ten parts of hydrated lime or cheap flour. A dust gun is convenient, but where not available, the dust mixture is easily applied to plants by shaking from a burlap bag. Blister beetles, the large purple ones that often do so much damage to sagebrush hedges and to garden ferns, are controlled by the same methods outlined for potato beetles.

For cabbage and cauliflower worms some of the arsenate of lime is generally recommended but not to more than 1 lb. Pyrethrum must be from fresh of being poisonous to insects as it loses its value if stored.

Further information on control of garden insects may be obtained by writing to the Dominion Entomological Laboratory at Lethbridge. Broomstick Brigade—Grade 4. Tap Dance—Jolayne Price and Theodora Redd. Reading—Margaret Wing. Number from the School Chorus.

A large crowd of parents and interested spectators gathered at the Opera House on Friday afternoon for the Annual Honor Day program of the Public School, and everyone present thoroughly enjoyed the splendid program that the students put on in honor of themselves and their school mates, whose school record for the year in attendance and punctuality and application to work, had won for them an honor certificate, which means a two week longer holiday than the other students get, besides being spared the necessity of writing examinations.

J. O. Hicken had charge of the program, and after singing "O Canada" he spoke briefly welcoming the audience to the meeting, and commended the students for their general good behavior during the school year now so near closed. The program numbers from there on were as follows:—

Speech by C. F. Tollestrup, Chairman of the School Board, who spoke on behalf of that body, and commended the labors of the staff in the accomplishments of the past year, and the confidence the Board had in them.

Mr. Hicken then distributed 122 Honor Certificates, and read a list of names of the pupils who had never been late nor absent during the past school year. (These lists will be found elsewhere in this issue.)

Announcements were made, and the singing of the National Anthem brought the program to a close.

SPECIAL MENTION LIST 1933-34

Perfect Attendance and Perfect Punctuality

SOCIAL CREDIT MEETING IS WELL ATTENDED

An interested and appreciative audience was present at the Raymond Opera House last Saturday evening to listen to the explanation of the Douglas scheme of Social Credit as given by Mrs. W. W. Rogers and J. Unwin, both of Calgary, and all those present, while not 100% in sympathy with the idea, practically all left the meeting with the idea that there was much food for thought in the subject, and that some system based on these fundamentals would have to be evolved to bring peace, happiness and contentment out of our present chaos and disappointment. J. H. Blackmore was Chairman of the meeting.

Mrs. Rogers was the first speaker of the meeting, and traced the growth of the present unemployment situation from increasing efficiency of the machine, displacing hand labor, and no effort made to give employment to the workmen thus displaced, naturally over-balancing the structure with the results we see now. Today we are paying $7,000,000 per year interest on our Provincial debt, and the principal was not being cut down at all. Social Credit, she declared, would make it possible to modernize every home, and give those within the home time to enjoy it, and to increase their knowledge and appreciation of art and the finer things of life. Speaking of our present financial system, the speaker declared the gold standard was only as much talk, and that in reality the banks were doing business on the credit of the Canadian people and that we were paying interest for the use of our own wealth, and instead of the accrued interest going back to the people whose credit brought it into being, it was going into the pockets of a few bank presidents and shareholders. Wars were brought on said the speaker by the capitalists and manufacturers, who exploited and sacrificed human lives, because of trouble over trade agreements, and according to Major Douglas, in his statements before the Alberta Legislature, if our present system was not changed, war within the next two years was inevitable and unavoidable.

UNWIN FLAYS OUR PRESENT PRACTICES

Mr. Unwin opened his speech by the declaration that "Social Credit is basically sound, and if adhered to will take us out of the depression and keep us out." Our present system of interest he said means loss of homes, of farms and other investments. If we wish to keep these things we must take the power away from the big banks and turn it back to the primary producers of the country.

Money at best is only a medium of exchange. If it has failed then it should be discarded, and another system introduced that will keep the flow of credit circulating like the blood of the body. Today farmers are still turning out manufactured goods but the consumer cannot buy. Why? Because the flow of credit is tied up, and the mass of the people cannot get a medium of exchange to buy with. Why can't we monetize our own wealth, circulate our own medium of exchange, start the wheels of industry moving and keep them moving, by making it impossible and unnecessary for people to hoard and save wealth thereby taking it out of circulation. Today, said the speaker, our financial system is governed by a very few men, whom we have no say about in electing, whom we cannot dismiss, and who tell us what and how to do with the wealth that our Social Credit creates, and we can do nothing about it.

Social Credit is the thing that population creates. Manufactured goods, even raw materials, or manufactured goods are not wealth any cannot be unless there are people to buy them, storehouses full of goods are only wealth when people can purchase them. Money is only wealth and only useful when it can be used to purchase the things we want and need. After all, our system is based on Social Credit, whether we call it that or not, and the sooner the people wake up to that fact the sooner they will demand a change to a system that represents and considers the National Wealth of the country on the basis of Social Credit.

The speaker explained in considerable detail the Basic Dividend, the Just Price, the continual and uninterrupted flow of Credit, the National Dividend, and the way in which Non-Negotiable Credit slips, Provincial Government Savings Bonds would suffice for all our inter-provincial business and trade, and that outside capital coming in would supply a cash reserve to provide for bills from other provinces, and for travel to other parts of the world.

A number of questions were asked and answered, and at the conclusion of the meeting and on the decision of those present, a committee was organized with the following personnel to conduct correspondence and probably arrange for a series of classes to study Social Credit in all its detail:

President—J. H. Blackmore
Vice-Pres.—J. O. Hicken.
Vice-Pres.—Mrs. F. Leavitt.
Secretary—S. I. May.

By the withdrawal of O. H. Snow, nominated for Vice-Pres. in favor of J. O. Hicken, the selection above named was made unanimous.

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Zabriskie and family spent the week-end in Waterton Park.

He: "What would I have to give you for one little kiss?"
She: "Chloroform!"

IS SOCIAL CREDIT THE REMEDY?

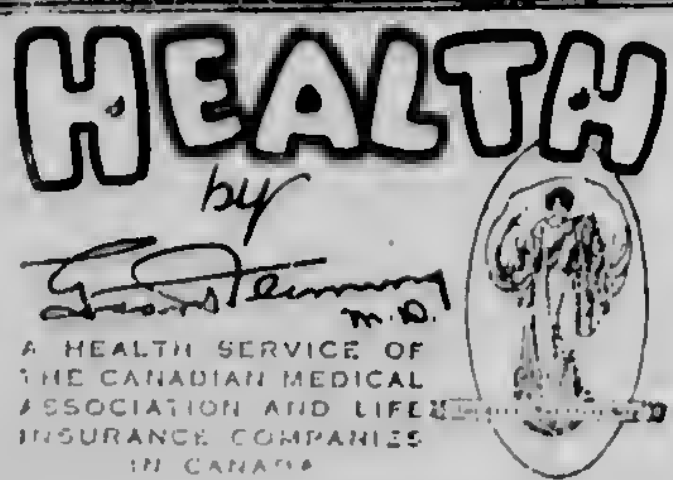

Last Saturday evening we attended the Social Credit meeting in the Opera House to hear what the disciples of this new trend of thought had to say regarding it. We will confess that we were skeptical of its possibilities, almost to the point of saying it was impossible and far fetched, but since listening to the arguments, we were asking ourselves the question, "Is this the remedy?" If you have not studied the thing nor given it any thought, do not condemn it until you have, there is certainly food for thought in the questions which the subject brings to the fore.

All will agree that money is merely a medium of exchange. If there is nothing you can buy with it, and it is also certain that you cannot make clothes out of it, so that if it has failed as a medium of exchange, it has lost its usefulness, and like any other article it is time that it was discarded. Now the question arises, what shall we use in its stead. Raymond people should not be bothered much with this when we have been using scrip for the past two years. Any paper, or other medium, for that matter will permit us to trade back and forth and that will get for us the necessities and comforts of life is just as useful as money, because money is only a medium of exchange.

There is no quarrel with our present system when it works freely and smoothly. But in times like these, when we need money and cannot get it, the flow of credit has been tied up in the hands of a few, and they sit back in comfort and watch the sufferings and heartaches of the many, and rather seem to relish it, and refuse to restore the flow of credit because of the uncertainty of collateral and difficulty of collections. Aggravating the very thing that a free flow of credit would help to remedy. When we are flush with cash, we can borrow all we want from the banks, but when things are going down and we want to try and stem the tide and restore things to normal there is no credit to be had. Similar to having the doctor call repeatedly when we are well, and then being unable to get him when we are ill and in need of him.

We are not saying that the present scheme as advocated is a panacea for our financial troubles. We are not saying that the present system will not answer all our needs just as well, when the machinery is re-oiled and the joints limbered up so it will run a little smoother. But we are of the opinion that there are many reasons today why we need a new deal, and redistribution of credit so that the wheel of industry can be set going and kept going, that the masses will have credit to buy with, and be given a chance to earn their living and remove from themselves the stigma of unemployment and objects of charity.

Think the situation over, Mr. Reader. If you are among the class of unemployed you are desirous of deliverance therefrom. On the other hand, you are able to take care of yourself and your dependents, put the shoe on the other foot and picture yourself an object of charity. Then you would want a change—wouldn't you?

ALLERGY

It is a fact that you may have a running nose, or swollen spots on your skin, or that you may struggle for breath, all from the same cause. To put this fact in other words, we might say that hay fever, asthma, and hives and other skin disorders are related one to another in that they all represent a reaction which is known as allergy.

The pollen of some grasses will cause hay fever; a strawberry may bring out a crop of hives and a feather pillow be responsible for an asthmatic attack, all because some people have a peculiar sensitiveness to certain substances which have no effect upon the vast majority of persons.

When called upon to deal with such cases, the doctor assumes the role of a detective, with the hope that he may discover the particular substance or substances to which his patient is sensitive. To assist him in this, he will use certain tests.

These tests consist of rubbing into a light scratch on the arm an extract of the suspected substance. If a number of substances are under suspicion, then a series of scratches are made, one for each substance. At the point which has been rubbed with the substance to which the person is sensitive, a wheal will appear.

In practice, it is not always as simple as this because the person is, as a rule, sensitive to more than one substance, and there are so many to which he may be sensitive, that it is not easy, in many cases, for the doctor to find the culprit.

Knowing the responsible substance, it may be possible to avoid it when it is an article of food, a feather pillow, or a druff from a horse. If, however, it is something like milk or eggs, it is difficult to eliminate these from the diet, and again, if pollens are responsible, necessity may keep a hay fever victim working in a district where these abound.

Fortunately, something may be done to overcome this sensitivity. Through a series of injections, in proper doses, the person who is sensitive to pollens may be built up gradually increasing from the most minute amounts such as one single drop of milk, for example.

The real purpose of this article is to bring to the attention of our readers, the manner in which such cases are properly dealt with by discovering and removing the cause. Obviously, it is a waste of time and money to take medicines to overcome a condition that is due to allergy or sensitiveness.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK...

(By Edson R. Waite, Shawnee)
PAUL HOLLISTER, Executive Vice-President of R. H. Macy and Co., Inc., says:

"One of the shrewdest and hardest-boiled of the Washington newspaper and radio observers, William Hard, wrote the other day in the Washington Star: 'It was Macy and Co., leading merchandising outfit that led the fight against all price fixing in retailing.' Did you ever stop to think why?"

"Because in 76 years since a Nantucket Whaler named Captain Rowland H. Macy came ashore and set up a little cash store at 14th Street and 6th Avenue, New York, his store has never been able to get away from a few simple truths.

2. "The truth that any business costs less to run as it business, and that cash saving must be passed on to the consumer."

"In those 76 years, Macy's has seen dozens of attempts at price fixing, every one of which aimed to make you and me—the consumer—pay more, in order to 'protect' a manufacturer or retailer who needed outside help to make up for his own lack of ability. The price fixer always thinks 'the public will foot the bill.'"

"The consumer is very patient—but the public will not foot the bill. What happens? The price fixer raises prices, so as to guarantee his own profit."

"Then the consumer says: 'I can't afford that much. What are prices up 20 p.c. and wages only up 10 p.c., I lose; I can't buy 90 p.c. of what I could afford before the price rise.' So the consumer—you and I—lose."

What About Social Credit in Canada?

This series is an explanation of the Douglas Social Credit Plan. Mr. Williams, (W.) a Social Credit advocate, is explaining the plan to his friend, Mr. Jones (J.) The scene is Mr. Williams' home, and the conversation takes place during an evening visit.

By following this series to the conclusion the reader will clearly understand the problem which faces Canada.

No. 19

J. "By the way, what about the international aspect? Suppose Canada passed a law this year, setting up a National Credit Authority with the control of all money and credit, and announced a tentative price discount of 25p.c. and an initial National Dividend of $40 per month to each individual. I can see a picture of the result in Canada but what about our foreign affairs? How about the exchange? Won't not the dollar be hammered down?"

W. "Well, this is a question which is hardly fair. I am not trying to hedge but it is certainly necessary to point out that any answer to a question like this is chiefly speculative. No one can predict with confidence what would happen but it is possible to form an opinion by considering the situation. I take it that you are wondering if Canada would be embarrassed in the experiment."

J. "Yes. How would she get on with her neighbors?"

W. "Well, I think that we are safe in ruling out any possibility of military action for the Social Credit is not likely to be adopted until a good part of the population understand and ask for it. Seeing that here is a situation where the political leaders would have nothing to hold back, their pronouncements on the subject would strengthen the morale of the Canadian people and would weaken those opposed to them."

But it is quite possible that International Finance, fearing the supremacy threatened, would influence the exchanges against Canada. The only way it could affect us is in our actual trade. Is there any commodity supply from which we could be cut off? Of course I think it is safe to assume that Great Britain and other parts of the Empire would not be antagonistic to us in an experiment. But suppose that we need oil products and that it is necessary to get them from the United States. United States needs wood pulp and we have a surplus of this commodity. Now there are other countries which could supply wood pulp but if they were not working on Social Credit principles they would have to quote prices which represented the financial cost of production while Canada could quote the real cost which, as you have seen, is considerably less. American newsprint firms would buy in the cheapest market and Canada would receive American money for the export of the newsprint. Then we should be in a position to spend that American money with the American oil producers and pay them for the supplies of crude oil which we need.

Speculators might hammer the Canadian dollar at first sight but when they found out the increased purchasing power of the dollar in terms of actual goods they would speedily change their minds, and run it up again. It is worthwhile to remember that the Canadian dollar, in the long run, is worth to any foreigner just what it will buy in Canada.

A peculiar feature which may have escaped your attention is that after we had exchanged sufficient goods to bring in all the foreign goods that we need if we still had a surplus of home products in any line, we could give it away to any other country—and we should not in any way be impoverished. We could well afford to do so though probably foreign anti-dumping laws would severely limit our generosity.

J. "That's quite an idea but I guess you had better stick to the immediate possibilities of the plan. Would you mind stating them again as you see them?"

W. "It begins by doing what all other policies merely promise to do—abolishing want. It can support in comfort every person whose services are not required by the industrial system; and therefore eliminates the unemployment problem."

It encourages the use of every labor saving device that science can offer.

It solves the problem of harmonizing the interests of the capitalist and the worker within the industrial system.

It abolishes the conflict between the parties to production on one hand, and the community (as the consuming party) on the other.

It eliminates taxation in the form in which we now know it.

It does not conflict with any political principle. It underlies all liberties and unifies them.

It wipes out crime in broad sweeps for careful investigation has shown that 75p.c. of crime can be traced to financial causes.

It leads to a short working day for everyone thus allowing the individual to live a broader life and have time for cultural growth.

It expands the home market and enables industry to recover its costs and keep solvent without being obliged to produce thousands of surplus products for foreigners, as now. Therefore it is the most powerful of all factors

1934 FRUIT SEASON EARLY Pigeon Lake.

(Armstrong Advertiser)

As the season is so early in B. C., the fruit growers, and their neighbors here, when writing to their friends advise the into procure their fruit early.

Strawberries started last year near the date, which finds them this year drawing to their close. Cherries will be running fully next week; and raspberries, logans and black currants will be ready this month, although the home canning of these, in most seasons, does not start till July. The later fruits are likely to be proportionately early.

Among the varieties, which maybe considered as essential for preserving, there is no single item more important than black currants.

Black currant jelly, when well made, is the outstanding jelly, and the jam, when carefully prepared, is delicious; but the value of the black currant is not confined to its utility as a sweet meat. It is one of the oldest remedies for throat troubles and its use for this, which in the early ages, was the result of experiments, by country people, has been confirmed by medical authority. A drink which will relieve throat troubles, can be made instantly, at any time, from Black currant preserves, or the jelly can be used for this purpose.

Alberta News Bulletin

Highway Improvement

First of the season's contracts for gravelling of highways will be awarded June 20, following financial arrangements completed between the federal and provincial governments for road work. The first series of contracts will include the gravelling of the balance of No. 3 highway from Bow Island east to the border of the province, the gravelling of a stretch of the Jasper Park highway from Evansburg to Galloway, 18 miles, which work will put the Jasper highway in comparatively good condition, as well as further gravelling from Calgary to Okotoks, the Alberta Beach highway west of Edmonton, High River to Vulcan, Lethbridge to Taber, Stirling to New Dayton, and Spring Coulee to Lethbridge, Castor to Coronation, Gull Lake to Lacombe and Wetaskiwin to ors in maintaining peace.

It makes it possible for every ideal of social betterment to be attained if the consideration involved is merely financial. In other words, no worthy cause could be halted by the ultimatum "There is no money for that purpose" or by the chilling dictum "Yes, it is a splendid project but it would not pay."

And it would do all this without the coercion of the individual. I mean that Freedom, which is the priceless boon to the individual, would not be lost.

Social Credit is the challenge to all collectivist movement; under any label which seeks to subordinate the individual to the State, that seek to impose a common lot on themselves in the form of a preconceived Utopia. Social Credit is individualism but at the same time it promises economic salvation for the multitude.

New Deputy Minister

E. L. Gray, for some years provincial field crops commissioner, took over his new duties last week as deputy minister of municipal affairs, vice R. English, resigned. Mr. Gray is well known in the west as a government executive, and for his work in promotion of crop betterment and the organization of seed grain relief and grasshopper control.

Numbers on Relief

Throughout the entire province of Alberta, 55,082 persons were listed as recipients of relief as at June 1 this year compared to a total of 52,851 men, women and children shown on the relief lists as at the same time in 1933. This is an increase of 2,231. The 1934 total when split up shows 25,702 on relief in the cities, 26,500 in the rural municipalities and outlying districts, and 1,880 single men cared for in relief kitchens and camps.

Municipal Road Grants

Allocations of government grants to municipalities and improvement districts throughout the province, for road work purposes, have been made, it is stated by Hon. O. L. McPherson, minister of public works, and each district is being notified of the amount available for its season's requirements. This is the first issue of grants to municipalities for three years, no such grants having been paid in 1932 or 1933. The total appropriation this year, as voted by the legislature, was $200,000, which has been allocated on a basis of population, mileage of roads and construction costs.

Big Increase in Tourist Enquiries

Increase of nearly 100p.c. in enquiries from prospective tourists is reported by the provincial publicity bureau, which has been concentrating on tourist publicity for the past three sessions. The bureau is in contact with over 800 agencies throughout the continent, to effect which supplies of the new provincial tourist literature and highway guides have been sent. A number of these bureaus report very large increases this season in tourist bookings and in interest shown in Alberta's attractions.

TOOK PILLS FOR YEARS, THEN CEREAL BROUGHT RELIEF

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Corrected
His Constipation

If you are troubled by common constipation, read this letter:

"Just a word in appreciation of what your ALL-BRAN has done for my health. For years, I had been doing myself with pills and other dopes for constipation."

"I decided to try Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Now I am in good health, and haven't taken a drop of medicine for six months."—Thos. F. Little (address furnished upon request).

Headaches, loss of appetite and energy, sleeplessness—any one of these may be caused by common constipation. Yet this condition can be corrected, usually, by eating a delicious cereal.

Tests show Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" and vitamin B to help promote regularity. ALL-BRAN also furnishes iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that in leafy vegetables. How much safer than patent medicines! Two tablespoonfuls of ALL-BRAN daily are usually sufficient. Chronic cases, with each meal.

If seriously ill, see your doctor. ALL-BRAN makes no claim to be a "cure-all."

Serve as a cereal or use in cooking. At all grocers in the red-and-green package. Get ALL-BRAN, and not a part-bran product. Made by Kellogg in London, Ontario.

Fires in Alberta

Thirty deaths from fires was the casualty list for Alberta in 1933, according to the report of Fire Commissioner Henry Brace compared with only nine last year. There were 1,823 fires during the year in all parts of the province, and property loss aggregated $1,435,613 as compared with $2,495,491 from 1,937 fires in 1932, a reduction of 41 per cent. The 1933 loss was the lowest fire damage on record for the past 14 years. While the number of fires that did not assume the proportions or cause the destruction that was the case in former years. Eight out of every ten fires are declared to have been due to careless handling of fires or neglect in removing fire hazards.

News Notes

Owners of automobiles in this district are being checked up again, and this time with a view to a closer compliance with the act which distinctly states that no person under the age of sixteen years shall be allowed to be in charge of or drive a motor vehicle, nor shall such persons do so until a driver's license has been procured from the government for the privilege of such driving.

It is very evident that in and around Wainwright this section of the Act is being evaded by a number of people and motor vehicles are to be seen on our streets being driven by children of tender years (and even in some cases without an adult with them—although the presence of such adult does NOT meet the demands of the Act), and it is high time that this menace was discontinued.

Accidents happen all too quickly, and from very many unforeseen causes, and the section of the Motor Vehicles Act governing this should be fully respected and strictly carried out, to the better advantage of those legally entitled to take charge of such vehicles and to the greater peace of mind and safety of us all.—Wainwright Star

THE FUTURE—CHAOS OR ORDER

(Country Life in B. C.)

What does the future hold for Canada and for Canadians? Have we reached the nethermost depths? What are we doing, as a nation to bring out of order of economic chaos? Are we giving study to what this Canada of ours will be five years hence if a New Deal is not organized?

There can only be destruction and revolution if these questions are not asked, studied and answered.

Now that Britain definitely has decided to get into the ring, action, vigorous and sustained, will follow. Japan's evasions, quibblings and chicanery have sent John Bull's blood pressure up to the fighting notch. Grim determination radiated from every word uttered by Rt. Hon. Walter Runciman, president of the Board of Trade, when he announced in the British House that "the Government has concluded that it would not be justified in longer delaying action in the hope of an agreement" and that he would ask the colonies to impose quotas against Japan. The colonies, the West Indies, the African Colonies, British West Africa, the Pacific Islands, Ceylon, Aden, Malta, Cyprus and many smaller possessions, have imposed the quotas already or will impose them just as soon as present agreements expire. The Overseas Dominions have been advised officially of Britain's action. They will have to decide for themselves whether they will impose quotas or whether they will prostitute their self-respect and national honor for temporary greed. Greed later would resolve itself into a calamitous boomerang. Japan, of course, tried again to stall but Britain said: "No, the jig's up and your number is up. Goodday to you!" And the quotas went into effect from that moment.
